

RabbitMQ students

1. Use Docker to run a local RabbitMQ server.
2. Change lab2c so that it only reads directly from the database. All modifications of data should be send through a RabbitMQ queue to a dedicated node.js application that write all changes to the database.